WASHINGTON — ITT Corp. of White Plains, N.Y., will rename and reorganize its defense business, consolidating seven defense-related business units down to three units within its Defense and Information Systems segment, according to a Jan. 5 ITT press release.

The company's current Space Systems and Night Vision divisions will be combined to form ITT Geospatial Solutions, headquartered in Rochester, N.Y. The other two new divisions are ITT Electronic Systems, based in Clifton, N.J., and ITT Information Systems based in Herndon, Va.

The realignment is meant to reduce operational redundancies, encourage a more coordinated market approach and better integrate ITT's product portfolio, the press release said.
